

BUT WAIT, THERE'S MORE...

E-MAIL US AT: bwtm@crain.com

"EVEN STANDING STILL, THE FUSION LOOKS LIKE IT'S READY TO BURST FROM THE BLOCKS"

—Ford design boss J Mays

Translation: Even standing still, the Fusion looks like it's standing still

SOCIETY NOTES

>> A California man shot at least three bullets into a Toyota Camry whose shrieking alarm annoyed him. David Owen Rye, 48, was arrested for investigation of reckless discharge of a firearm and felony vandalism. The owner of the Camry was visiting a friend when he heard the gunfire, which seemed to garner much more of his attention than the actual alarm.

BODY DOUBLE

My Favorite Martian
Ray Walston

BODY DOUBLE II

1937 Delage D8-120
Pourtout Aero Coupe

2006 Morgan AeroMax Coupe

PHOTO WITH CAPTION

Processing... processing...

MARGARET McDOWELL

My Favorite Land Rover designer
Geoff Upex

PHOTO WITH CAPTION II

JOURNALISTS, THANKFULLY, ARE EXPECTED TO SPORT BUSINESS ATTIRE

> The 2006 World Cup mascot, Goleo, showed up at the Hyundai stand in Frankfurt. It caused us to ask again that age-old question: Why do animals go to the trouble of wearing shirts when pants are apparently optional?

MATT DAVIS

HEADLINE OF THE WEEK

BMW Worker Accused of Stealing Nearly $500,000 in Equipment

South Carolina police arrested 27-year-old BMW assembly plant worker Jason Pitts after he allegedly stole 270 navigation systems—each valued at $1,800—over a 23-month period. Investigators said Pitts sold the units online at heavily discounted prices.

IMMORTAL GLASSY-EYEDS

1972 LEMONS COUPE 350, 3 speed, all original, PA car, needs total restoration, store in barn, my loss your gain $9,000 best cash offer.

0 x 2 = ?

According to Hartford, Connecticut's WFSB television news, a gas station owner ended his protest against high gas prices by turning his pumps back on. Walter Dethier, owner of the Berkshire Country Store in Cornwall, stopped selling gas on Sept. 1 after prices increased 48 cents in one day. Now that prices have dropped, Dethier is selling gas again, and says his sales have doubled since he turned the pumps back on.

